

Working Effectively with Aboriginal Peoples™

Online Workshop presented by Indigenous Corporate Training Inc. for the ABCFP

About the Workshop

With the growing importance of Aboriginal issues in the province, the association recognizes that forest professionals must be effective in working with Aboriginal peoples. The ABCFP will soon require that members can prove their competency for working with Aboriginal peoples if their jobs entail it. In order to help members become competent in this important area, the ABCFP worked with Indigenous Corporate Training Inc. to bring you this online workshop .

This classic Aboriginal cross cultural awareness training program has been field tested with Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal peoples and is designed to help people work effectively with Aboriginal peoples by getting beyond Aboriginal awareness to practical skills and tools that can be applied everywhere.

This online training provides a review of historical events and their relation to the present economic environment; explores critical issues of taxation, housing, and education; shows how working with Aboriginal peoples can enhance your career and help your business; and help you understand cross-cultural perspectives.

Who Should Attend?

All professionals working with Aboriginal Peoples including members of ABCFP, DEGIFS, BCIA, CAB and APBBC.

Length

This course takes approximately 10 to 15 hours to complete and is done completely online. You must complete the course within three months of receiving your access key

Registration

Mail or fax the completed form (see reverse), including full payment, to the ABCFP office. Online registration is available on our website: www.abcfp.ca. Please note that those who are GST exempt are not permitted to register online.

Once you register, you will be emailed a "key" within three business days. This "key" will give you access to the course and is valid for three months – you must complete the course in this time and not share the key with others. No refunds will be granted once you receive your access key.
